SEWELL FIELDS CASE IS AFFIRMED

OPPONENTS OF THE FOUR POWER TREATY ORGANIZE FOR FRAY

DEFINITE PLAN IS AGREED UPON AFTER TALK WITH BORAH

FRIENDS OF WILSON JOIN IN CONFERENCE

Program and Alignment of Senators Is Still a Matter of Speculation

WASHINGTON, March 8—With opposition forces organizing for the fray the senate fight over the four power Pacific treaty promised to get into full swing today when Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, republican leader, delivered his speech in defense of the pact. Senator Robinson, democrat, Arkansas, planned to follow Senator Lodge in an address favoring his two proposed reservations to the treaty and it appeared likely that a general discussion would develop terminating the preliminary lull which has marked the treaty debate thus far

That opponents are organizing to press their fight on the treaty was assured today through the knowledge that a definite plan of action had been agreed upon after consultation by Senator Borah republican, Idaho, and some of the friends of former President Wilson

Just how far the sentiments of Mr Wilson himself may be reflected in the understanding thus affected by the "irreconcilable" leader, or how far reaching the understanding may be has not been revealed One of those from whom the Idaho senator is understood to have sought the views of the former president is Bernard M Baruch of New York Mr Borah also is said to have been in correspondence on the subject with Norman Davis, former undersecretary of state

The Idaho senator in addition is known to have been in constant conference with the democratic senators who are regarded as followers of the former president who in turns have conferred with the senators of their party who have been inclined to follow the leadership of Senator Underwood and support all of the conference treaties Just what alignment may result from this, however appears at this stage to be entirely speculative

DENIES HE CONVEYED THE VIEWS OF FORMER PRESIDENT

NEW YORK, March 8—Bernard M. Baruch last night said that it was not true that he had conveyed the views of former President Wilson on the four power Pacific treaty to Senator Borah of Idaho

Mr Baruch said his own opposition to the treaty was a "personal" one and added "Senator Borah rarely needs direction on any subject. Whenever he assumes a position he usually does so as the result of his own convictions which he is able to make clear generally with clarity and always with courage

"It seems to me that these matters should be discussed on the basis of fact not on the basis of personalities"

PLAN TO RUSH THE BONUS BILL UNDER RULES SUSPENSION

SUCH IS PROGRAM OF REPUBLICAN LEADERS IN THE HOUSE

BAR TO AMENDMENTS AND LIMITS DEBATE

Army Appropriation Bill Will Delay Measure Until Next Week

WASHINGTON March 8—Republican leaders disclosed today that they were considering a plan to put the soldiers' bonus bill through the house under a suspension of the rules which would shut out amendments of any kind and limit debate to 40 minutes

Under this plan a two-thirds vote would be necessary to pass the measure, but leaders believed on the basis of present sentiment among members that this majority could be obtained with votes to spare

Monday, March 20 will be the next rules suspension day

The army appropriation bill will be taken up before the bonus measure, it was said, probably next Tuesday This probably would mean that in any event the bonus bill would be put over until the week following Representative Mondell of Wyoming said today he did not think the statement made yesterday at the white house that President Harding had not changed his position set forth last month in his letter to Chairman Fordney of the ways and means committee was to be taken as an indication that Mr Harding was prepared to veto the bonus measure as now drawn with its bank loan provisions in lieu of the cash bonus

BONUS BILL IS READY FOR PRESENTATION TO CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, March 8—After weeks of work and worry the house ways and means committee has evolved a soldier bonus bill on which it apparently intends to stand pat

Despite some criticism of the measure in and out of congress, Chairman Fordney and his coworkers believe it will encounter only comparatively feeble opposition in the house unless there is an unexpected reaction among the great majority of members who have been insistent that some sort of bonus legislation be enacted at this session

Just what will happen to the bill in the senate appears at this time problematical There the measure will be opened to amendment and also to unlimited debate and it is regarded as more than probable that it will be subjected to change in some important particulars Since President Harding advised the house committee to pay the bonus with a sales tax or postpone the legislation, it is expected that sales tax proponents in the senate will renew their fight

Among house members generally there was more discussion today as to how the president viewed the bill than there was about its probable fate after it left the house Framers of the measure appeared to be fairly confident that it would not meet with the executive's disapproval because it removed what they said was the fundamental objection to the cash bonus plan—an immediate drain on the federal treasury

Some opponents of the measure in the house predicted that the bill would be unsatisfactory to both the country and the service men They contended that it would not enable the men to get as much cash in three years as they would have received under the original cash plan and that the proposed advances by the banks, if made, would inflate credits to the extent of half a billion or more dollars over the period of the bank loans thus increasing living costs

Proponents of the bank loan plan argued that through this provision the men would obtain immediately a far larger sum than they would have received under the cash installment plan originally proposed and this without the imposition of any additional taxes They contended also that when the treasury would begin to pay out money it could reasonably be assumed that there would be funds to meet the payments through reduced government expenses and receipts from the refunded foreign loan

The time of the calling up of the bill in the house will not be definitely fixed until Chairman Fordney returns to Washington from a trip to the middle west on which he started yesterday It could be taken up Monday under a suspension of the rules which would preclude amendment and if not taken up then a special rule could be brought out for its consideration under the parliamentary situation which permit of only such changes as the committee might desire to make

NINE POWER TREATY SUPERCEDES THE OLD LANSING - ISHII PACT

SENATE IS SO IMFORMED BY PRESIDENT IN REPLY TO REQUEST

FOUR POWER PACT HAS NO REFERENCE TO CHINA

Lansing-Ishii Agreement Has No Binding Effect That Creates a Conflict

WASHINGTON March 8—The Lansing-Ishii agreement has been completely superceded by the nine power treaty relating to China now before the senate President Harding informed the senate today in response to the recently adopted Borah resolution The executive added that the four power treaty did not refer to China and does not directly bear upon the Lansing Ishii notes

The socalled Lansing - Ishii agreement the president declared in a letter to the senate has no binding effect whatever either with respect to the past or to the future which is in any sense inconsistent with the principles and policies explicitly declared in the nine-power treaty

The president added that the four-power treaty "does not refer to China and hence does not directly bear upon the Lansing Ishii notes which related exclusively to China" but said that the four-power pact in his opinion was an essential part of the plan to create conditions in the far east at once favorable to the policies we have long advocated and to an enduring peace

"The negotiation of this treaty" the president said referring to the nine power pact is in itself the most formal declaration of the policy of the executive in relation to China and supersedes any executive understanding or declaration that could possibly be asserted to have contrary import If the senate assents to this treaty the principles and policies which the treaty declares will be supported and enforced by a binding international agreement"

COUNTRY CLUB TO START AT ONCE ON ITS NEW BUILDING

DIRECTORS VOTE TUESDAY TO PROCEED WITH PLANS FOR HANDSOME HOME

WILL SPEND $85,000 TO BUILD AND EQUIP

Project Successfully Financed by Sale of Bonds to Club Membership

A decision to proceed at once with the preliminaries incident to the construction of the new club house of the Wichita Falls Golf and Country club was reached Wednesday morning at a meeting of the club's directors

Although the canvass for subscriptions to the bond issue has not been completed, the response from those called upon has been sufficiently strong to assure a working fund.

When the remainder of the bonds have been placed, a total of $85,000 will be available for the new club house, for equipping it and for making necessary roads and other improvements. Part of this sum will be realized by the sale of the property north of Speedway road, which the club will not need when the new home is built. It is expected that the club house will cost $60,000 to $65,000 and that the remainder will be used for furnishing it and for outside improvements, which will inclue a swimming pool, a bridge across Holliday creek and other things.

The directors authorized the appointment of a permanent building committee, the personnel of which will doubtless be named by A. H. Britain, president of the club, within a short time. This committee will select the architect, and choose the site.

It is expected to erect a building that will be the equal of any country club in the southwest.

6,000 MARK PASSED BY ENROLLMENT IN THIS CITY'S SCHOOLS

An encouraging point in the matter of this city's growth is noted in figures on the public school enrollment, reports of which were made public Tuesday. According to records in the office of Superintendent of Schools Lee Clark, the total enrollment for the schools of the city is at present 6,075, or more than at any other time in the history of the system.

At the close of the school last spring the enrollment had set a high mark, and at that time it was only 5,593.

This is clearly an indication that while the city may be losing some residents it is at the same time gaining others. Records at the school office show that many of these additional students have moved here from out of town, which necessarily means an increase in the adult population.

In the junior and senior high schools there are 1,099 students, and of these 501 are boys and 598 girls. Out of the 122 members of the present senior class, 52 are boys and 70 girls

This is interesting from the fact that the attendance records of the upper grades usually show a decline as compared with the per capita enrollment in lower grades.

LARGE CROWD HEARS LECTURE ON ITALY BY DR. H. YEUELL

The following report of Dr. Yeuell's lecture at the First Christian church Tuesday night has been received:

Every seat, including the balcony, at the First Christian church was filled Tuesday night at the "Sunny Italy" lecture entertainment given by Dr. Herbert Yeuell. It was a marvel of pictorial word, and the lecture without the pictures was worthy a place on any lecture platform. The lecture is quite a distinct entertainment in itself. Without the usual signals the doctor forges ahead with rapid fire comment on great world affairs while the pictures come on in perfect agreement as a matter of course.

Dr. Yeuell's voice is out or the ordinary, musical, penetrating and at times startlingly dramatic. There is not a dull moment from start to finish. There is no attempt at facetious remarks about foreigners but there is a sense of humor all through. Mr. Yeuell is by no means given to fulsome praise of other peoples at the expense of Americans, yet he shows their virtues and achievements with rare discrimination. The general verdict is that these pictures are the most wonderful ever shown before a Wichita Falls audience.

The lecturer showed that Italy must be respected inasmuch as an ally she lost about a million men in the world war, practically doing for France and England in the earlier stages of the war what America did in the later period.

The beauties of Venice were shown with her canals and palaces, her cathedral and the Doges palace and the Campanile as well as several paintings by Veronese and Titian.

Several of Shakespeare's plays such as the "Merchant of Venice," "Othello," "Two Gentlemen of Verona" and "Romeo and Juliet" were beautifully illustrated.

Florence the city of culture, of Dante, Galileo, Leonardo di Vinci, the Medicean family, Savonarolo the reformer and martyr—also of Pisano Ghiberti, Brunelleschi Raphael and Michael Angelo, was given with truly wonderful descriptions and pictures.

Rome and Naples came in for their share, but the latter part of the entertainment was devoted to the last days of Pompeii, the blue grotto of Capri and the return home.

Dr. Yeuell's recitation of Tennyson's "Crossing of the Bar" was a distinct work of art.

Wednesday night the subject will be "Quo Vadis." Special arrangements are being made to take care of the large crowds. Owing to the prayer meetings the first pictures will be shown at 8 o'clock. A community sing will precede with Mary E. Hughes at the piano. Miss Hughes has a national reputation for this sort of music.

Five-Minute Eggs Organize Here to Fight Jelly Beans

A new fraternal organization rejoicing in the name of "The Five-Minute Egg Club" has recently made its appearance at the local high school and from all reports is now one of the undisputed leaders of student activity.

The club membership is made up of some sixty avowed roughnecks, masculine gender, whose chief mission in life is to accomplish the extermination of the 'jelly bean.' Under the rules adopted by the Eggs, any effeminate member of their own sex is legitimate prey for club action and either moral or physical persuasion may be brought to bear.

"Down with the side-burns and up with the cuffs" is the club war cry, and in pursuance of its policies several Eggs early this week rolled a victim's trousers up to his knees and forced him to sit for some minutes before a surprised and wondering crowd composed mainly of the fairer sex. No mercy has thus far been extended any boy appearing at school with cuffless trousers or overly sized sideburns, and the executive committee of the new organization intends that this idea be carried out in the future.

"The Five-Minute Egg' name was borrowed from a northern university which established such an organization some time ago and which has been successful in wagering war on the jelly bean element. An egg boiled for five minutes, it is explained, is considerably hard boiled, which is supposed to correspond with the attitude of club members toward their adversaries. Members of the original organization in the north posed for their pictures with a nickles worth of navy plug in each cheek, but so far such heroic measures have not been adopted locally.

According to reports, those included in the ranks of the jelly beans are accepting the situation good naturedly. No ill feeling has as yet been engendered on either side, but bloody retribution has been promised the Eggs if individual members of their organization fall into the hands of those whose dignity they have disturbed.

School officials view the affair with a philosophical air, secure in the knowledge that it will blow over in a few days.

TIMES DAILY MARKETS

COTTON MARKET.

New York Cotton.

NEW YORK, March 8.—The cotton market showed renewed steadiness at the opening today owing to continued reports of improved British trade conditions and reiterated complaints of delayed farm work in the south. There was scattered local selling and some selling of October believed to be for Japanese account but the offerings were quite readily taken at the opening advance of 6 to sixteen points and active months sold about 12 to 18 points net higher shortly after the call, with May selling at 18.08 and July at 17.37.

The market became quiet later and prices sagged off a few points under realizing or liquidation by early buyers. Otherwise there was no pressure. While southern spot advices were bullish, the eastern belt forecast pointed to renewed rains tomorrow and the weekly report of the weather bureau mentioned damage to cotton by the cold snap in south Texas. These features gave the market a firmer tone with May contracts selling up to 18.13 and July to 17.45, on covering, or about 20 to 34 points net higher.

The market closed steady.

New Orleans Cotton.

NEW ORLEANS, March 8.—Prices were raised 14 to 19 points in the first half hour of trading in cotton today by buying aroused by a better Liverpool market than due. The continued drouth in the northwestern section of the belt and continued rather low temperatures over the belt generally were regarded as buying fatigue. May was sent to 16 92.

The tone held steady and prices were gradually advanced by the forecast of rain for every state in the cotton belt, by the unfavorable tone of the weekly report by the government on new crop prospects and by claims from Texas of more inquiry for spots on the part of European buyers. Toward noon prices were 20 to 27 points up with May at 17 cents.

The market closed steady at a net advance of 23 to 31 points.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE

CHICAGO, March 8.—New setbacks in the price of wheat here resulted early today from fresh declines in quotations at Liverpool. Uncertainty continued as to whether the government report this afternoon on farm reserve stocks of wheat would prove bullish or bearish.

The opening, which varied from ¼ to 1¼c lower, with May $1.40 to $1 41⅛ and July $1.18⅞ to $1.19, was followed by slight additional declines.

Corn and oats declined with wheat. After opening ⅛c to ¼c lower, May 63 to 63¼c, corn receded a little more.

Oats started unchanged to ¼c lower, May 41⅛c to 41¼c and then underwent an additional sag.

Provisions also were depressed by a drop at Liverpool.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, March 8.—Shorts were disposed to extend their commitments at the opening of today's stock market on the further heaviness of foreign exchanges, especially the British rate. They became more cautious however, as pools resumed their bullish operations in specialties. Electric Storage Battery, American Car and American Beet Sugar soon gained one to two and a half points. Consolidated Gas also made up the greater part of yesterday's setback. Oils were the only active shares to show marked heaviness on renewed pressure against General Asphalt and Mexican Petroleum. A new high record for Victory 4¾ notes at 100.46 featured the early bond market.

Better trade news, evidence of oversold conditions in certain stocks and an abundance of money at low rates caused an expansion of pool operations. Hitherto inconspicuous shares were brought forward as leaders and gains of 1 to 5 points were numerous among the industrials and specialties. United States Alcohol, National Enamelling, Pierce Arrow preferred, International Motors, Owens Bottle and Pressed Steel Car were conspicuous in the afternoon rise.

SHALLOW COMPLETION IN SOUTH ELECTRA GOOD FOR 30

Ted Markham and Conner O'Neil have started a rotary test on the south forty acres of the C. J. Hoffman tract southeast of Burkburnett in the vicinity of the old graveyard district.

The Petroleum Producers company No. 2 in South Electra was completed Tuesday and is making around twenty barrels from the shallow sand at 480 feet. The well when thoroughly cleaned out looks good for a thirty-barrel pumper. To the east the Riner-Bailey company's offset to No. 1 of the Producers is setting casing on the sand at 478 feet and will complete this week.

Articles pawned in London each week are said to average more than $1,000,000 in value.

OPEN LETTER NO. 2

FOR THE INFORMATION OF TAXPAYERS OF WICHITA COUNTY: ISN'T IT A FACT THAT APPROXIMATELY $1,000.00 PER MONTH OF THE TAXPAYERS' MONEY IS BEING WASTED ON BUYING SAND FOR THE CONCRETE ROADS?

J. P. Jones, County Judge, County Commissioners, J. M. Isbell, County Engineer:

You have not seen fit to reply to our open letter No. 1, published in the daily papers of this city March 4th, 5th and 6th. It seems to us that if our position is not right you would be glad to explain to the taxpayers wherein we have misinformed them.

We are, in this letter, going to give some additional information regarding the way you are buying sand for the concrete roads you are building in this county. First, we want the taxpayers to know that since the Company has been under its present management at least, it has had no desire to have you buy any of its products without it is first-class in every respect and meets the specifications of the State and Federal Highway Departments, whose specifications you work under in securing State and Federal aid. To show you our good faith in this respect we wrote you a letter some months ago suggesting that we would be pleased to have you place an inspector at our plant, appointed by you, to pass on the quality of our product and the expense of having such inspector to be met by us. You refused to do this and after such refusal we made arrangements with the best consulting engineer in this city to inspect and test every car of our sand before it was hauled to your unloading plant. It was not our intention for any car to be delivered to you from our plant until it had received this very rigid examination. However, we cannot be responsible for samples exhibited when taken by a prejudiced party, as it is entirely too easy for a sample to be taken and "salted" with Wichita County dirt and then tested or exhibited.

We want the taxpayers to know that several weeks ago we called on you while the Court was in session and brought with us samples of sand taken from cars shipped you from other plants and placed them before you. You were of the impression when these samples were shown you that this sand was from our plant and immediately condemned it, saying that you could not afford to use any such sand in your roads. We think you were absolutely right in this instance, as some of the sand was of very inferior quality, containing clay balls, roots, sticks and other foreign matter, making it a very poor quality of sand. It developed, however, at this meeting that this sand had already been unloaded at your plant and was unquestionably used in the road work. In other words, it seemed that after you found that it did not come from our plant some miraculous change in quality of same was effected and the sand was entirely satisfactory, according to your judgment, for use. Please understand that the sand we are now discussing is sand that you are now paying 10 cents per ton more for than we are asking for ours, which will pass the most rigid examination by an unprejudiced and competent engineer.

Another question we would like to ask and have you answer to the taxpayers of this County, is, why are you so anxious to have all the money released by the banks so it can all be spent this year, instead of running over several months into the next year? What benefits, if any, are to be derived by the taxpayers in having this money spent more rapidly than you first anticipated? Why not give your successors in office a chance to spend a portion of this money and see if they cannot build more miles of road for the same money than you are building?

Since writing our Open Letter No. 1 numerous taxpayers of this County have written and talked to us about this proposition, all of whom, without exception, have suggested that we, in the vernacular of the baseball fan, "Pour It On." And for your information will say that their suggestion is going to be followed until justice and right prevail.

We shall be glad to hear from as many of the taxpayers of this county as see fit to write or talk to us regarding it and invite either criticism or commendation of our attitude, as all we are asking for is a square deal, which if given to us will mean a saving of many thousands of dollars to the taxpayers of Wichita County.

Aren't you about tired of battery troubles?

Why lessen your pleasure in motoring by putting up with battery troubles, when they are not necessary? Particularly, when a troublesome battery costs more than a good one.

It is literally true that the least expensive battery is the best one you can buy. If there is any doubt in your mind about this, ask people who have Exides in their cars how long their batteries last, and if they get in trouble.

You will find plenty of people to ask, for more cars leave the manufacturers' hands equipped with Exides than with any other battery. Exide was the original starting and lighting battery for automobiles, just as it has been the pioneer in other industries since there was such a thing as a storage battery. You will find Exide Batteries in service for many years still doing active duty.

Don't put up with battery troubles when there is an Exide made for every car, at a near-by Exide Service Station.

PREPARE TO APPRAISE VERNON LIGHT PLANT

VERNON, TEXAS March 8—An appraisal of the local light plant belonging to the Texas Public Service company will be made shortly by firms representing both the corporation and the city, with the view of a possible purchase of the holdings here by the municipality Harry Mason mayor, A V Foster, president of the Texas Public Service company and J R Easton, also of the company are in Dallas at this time arranging for the services of appraisers

The action followed a conference here last week between city officials and representatives of the public utilities company with a view of settling the light situation which has been a much mooted question here Rates were discussed and Mr Foster and his associate agreed to make the best offer possible in current charges in the event the city would accede to the proposition of leaving matters as they are Members of the city commission were divided upon this issue, and the offer was declined

Officials of the company have argued to sell their property here at a price fixed on it by authoritative appraisal The city however reserve the right not to purchase the holdings regardless of the findings of the appraisers

HUFF AVENUE GARAGE SCENE OF TWO FIRES WITHIN TWELVE HOURS

Fire breaking out for the second time in less than 12 hours burned away the entire roof of a two-story frame garage in the rear of the R. L. Dillard home 1820 Huff, at 2 30 Wednesday morning Firemen again saved the lower portion of the building from damage but the upper section suffered considerable loss

The building caught fire at 3 30 Tuesday afternoon and suffered approximately a $400 loss The roof was burned through in one place and the upper walls scorched Firemen soaked the entire building thoroughly even after the fire was out in order to preclude the possibility of some hidden spark breaking out and causing another blaze

Fire officials thought the first fire was caused by an overheated gas stove but were unable to give any reason for the second

If you are thin and emaciated and wish something to help you put on flesh and increase your weight, Yeast Vitamine Tablets should be used in connection with organic Nuxated Iron Without organic iron, both food and Vitamines are absolutely useless as your body cannot change inert, lifeless food into living cells and tissue unless you have plenty of organic iron in your blood Organic iron takes up oxygen from your lungs. This oxygenated organic iron unites with your digested food as it is absorbed into your blood just as fire unites with coal or wood, and by so doing it creates tremendous power and energy Without organic iron in your blood your food merely passes thru your body without doing you any good

Arrangements have been made with the druggists of this city to give every reader of this paper a large $1.00 package of Genuine Yeast Vitamine Tablets absolutely free with every purchase of a bottle of Nuxated Iron

NUXATED IRON

S. S. S. Fills Out Hollow Cheeks, Thin Limbs!

Men and women,—whether you will ever build yourself up to your normal, just-right weight depends on the number of blood-cells in your blood. That's all there is to it. It's a scientific fact. If your blood-cell factory isn't working right, you will be run-down, thin, your blood will be in disorder, and perhaps your face will be broken out with pimples, blackheads and eruptions. S. S. S. keeps your blood-cell factory working full time. It helps build new blood-cells. That's why S. S. S. builds up thin, run-down people, it puts firm flesh on your bones, it rounds out your face, arms, neck, limbs, the whole body. It puts the "pink" in your cheeks. It takes the hollowness from the eyes, and it feels Father Time by smoothing out wrinkles in men and women by "plumping them up S. S. S. is a remarkable blood-purifier. While you are getting plump, your skin eruptions, pimples, blackheads, acne, rheumatism, rash, tetter, blotches are being removed. The medicinal ingredients of S. S. S. are guaranteed purely vegetable. S. S. S. is sold at all drug stores, in two sizes. The larger size is the more economical.

FOOD SHOW MAY BE MADE ANNUAL AFFAIR, AFTER GOOD START

The pure food and health show finished strong Tuesday night at the old co-operative store rooms, the final hours of the exhibition attracting one of the largest crowds of the entire show period.

Show officials considered for a time the advisability of holding the exhibits over the remainder of the week, but it was finally decided that the benefits to be derived from such a continuation would not balance the heavy expense local merchants would have to bear. The "free lunch line," which has been maintained throughout each of the show days, has resulted in hundreds of dollars' worth of food being given away by the exhibitors

In all probability the show will be made an annual event, according to Dr. A H Douglas, head of the city health department, who expressed himself Wednesday as being very well pleased with the success attained by this year's health movement. The show was arranged in less than four days time, but with the hearty co-operation of grocers and other handlers of food products the health department officials were able to present a really worth while food exhibition

Dr. Douglas and others interested with him, however, are anxious to stage a much more elaborate affair next year. The health lectures were not stressed this year as heavily as was desired, simply because time and space would not permit, but with a larger room where crowds could be accommodated this could be made into one of the strong drawing cards

Other novel and interesting as well as instructive features can also be worked out in connection with such an exhibit, and will be, Dr. Douglas believes

LODGE DISCUSSES PROVISIONS OF THE FOUR POWER PACT

DECLARES NO ENTANGLING COMMITMENTS ARE IN THE TREATY

DESIRE OF DELEGATES WAS TO GET RESULTS

Were in Complete Accord as to the Policies to Be Pursued at Conference

WASHINGTON March 8—Termination of the Anglo-Japanese alliance and substitution of a political system actuated by peace in the Pacific was described in the senate today by Senator Lodge of Massachusetts the republican leader and a member of the American arms delegation, as the "main purpose" of the four power Pacific treaty.

The Anglo Japanese arrangement, Senator Lodge declared was regarded by the delegation as the 'most dangerous element in this government's relations with the far east He asserted that if the four power pact with its clause abrogating the alliance failed the naval limitation agreement also would be endangered resulting in "failure of the conference'

No entangling commitments are contained in the treaty he asserted and no provision contrary to American traditions He characterized it as only an experiment' but added that it was one that must succeed if the United States is to make good its professed desires to take the lead in guiding the world toward peace

Declaring he desired to "tell the senate with entire frankness' the motives which actuated the American delegation Mr Lodge said

'For a month and more before the conference met the American delegation was in session almost every day We tried to determine and mark out the course which the American delegation with whom rested the responsibility of initiating all the work of the conference should follow The delegation was in complete accord as to the policies to be pursued The shadow of politics or of personal feeling never rested for a moment upon our deliberations

Delegates United

"The delegates were united in their desire to secure results from the conference which would promote the peace of the world, reduce in some measure the burden of taxation imposed by the existence of armies and fleets and the competition of armaments and protect the peace and safety of the United States. We were of one mind in agreeing that if we were to have any measure of success we must think in terms of peace and not terms of war It was my earnest hope that in a portion of the earth's surface at least we could do something to substitute the assurance of peace for the arrangements and calculations of war

'Actuated by these beliefs and by this spirit we were clearly of the opinion that there lay before us three great objectives three dominant purposes to be attained One was the termination of the Anglo Japanese alliance. The next was an agreement between the five principal and allied powers seated at the table for a reduction of naval armaments The third was to accomplish all that was possible to aid China in such ways as to help her in the establishment of a free and independent government and particularly to secure the restoration of the great province of Shantung to the Chinese empire to which it rightfully belonged

'We succeeded before the close of the conference in attaining all these objects Personally I believe that it involves the United States to no obligation except to meet with the other signatories and consult in case of any controversy arising out of or in case of aggression by some outside power not a signatory I repeat that I think the obligation to meet and consult is the only obligation existing in this treaty and the main purpose of the treaty is attained by the termination of the Anglo-Japanese alliance.

Dangerous Element

"It is not necessary for me to go into details as to the reasons for my opinion as to the great importance of this single achievement. It is sufficient to say that in my judgment the Anglo-Japanese alliance was the most dangerous element in our relations with the far east and with the Pacific Wars come from suspicions which develop into hatreds which develop into war The Anglo-Japanese alliance caused a growing feeling of suspicion not only in the United States but in Canada On the other side it tended to give a background to Japan which encouraged the war spirit and large preparations both by land and sea for future conflict It immobilized England and prevented the exercise of her influence in the east for the cause of peace, and peace is distinctly in her interest in that great region That menace to peace is removed by the four power treaty

"I have already shown the total difference which exists between this treaty and the Anglo-Japanese alliance There is no likeness between that alliance and this treaty Far from taking the place of the other this treaty simply enabled England and Australia and New Zealand to take part in terminating the alliance The removal of the Anglo-Japanese alliance which is complete created the situation in which it was possible to bring about an agreement for the reduction of naval armament while that alliance existed a reduction of naval armament was difficult if not impracticable

Senators should bear in mind that the defeat of the four power would endanger the treaty for the limitation of naval armament and the failure of the naval treaty would shock and startle the world and bitterly disappoint the American people We must not forget the close relation between the two treaties The defeat of the four power treaty would mean the failure of the conference Let there be no illusion on that point

Plan to Promote Peace

"The purpose of the American delegation in the conference, and, I think of all other members of the conference besides those of the United States, was to endeavor to do something at once practicable and concrete which would promote the peace of the world They believed this could be done without alliances or penalties Such experiments have been made in the past in isolated instances, but I venture to assert that never has the experiment been attempted on such a scale or under similar conditions We have passed through a war the like of which the world has never seen The misery and the horrors of the great war must never again come if we can do anything to stop it We must try our best to secure this great result

I know it is only an experiment, but I have faith to believe that the better instincts of mankind are all with us in the effort If we continue to preach suspicion and hatred of other nations, if we decline to deal with them and believe that they all are actuated by the basest of motives nothing can ever be done I have faith to believe that this effort, illustrated by this treaty now before us will have a large and real result in maintaining the world's peace If we fail the outlook for the future is dark indeed

"The best hope of the world for a future where peace may prevail and war diminish is in the people of the United States If we fail who can hope to succeed" We called this conference, we proposed the treaties, agreements and declarations in which the conference culminated are we now to stumble and fall at the threshold of the undertaking which we designed and brought to fulfillment" Are we to sink back into a sullen solitude a prey to dark suspicions a hermit nation armed to the teeth and looking forward always to wars as inseparable from the existence of mankind upon the earth"

"The United States has never yet permitted failure or defeat to be written in her history. She will not permit it now"

HOW TWO WOMEN ESCAPED OPERATIONS

Doctor Advised Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Happy Results in Both Cases

St. Joseph, Missouri.—"Both of my sides swelled and hurt me so that I could not move or do any of my work. There was heavy pressure and pains through my lower organs and the doctor told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for these troubles He said I had this one chance, and if the Vegetable Compound did not help me nothing but an operation would. After taking several bottles I felt it was helping me and now I am able to do my own work. If my testimonial will help others I shall be glad for them to read it and hope your Vegetable Compound will do them as much good as it did me."—Mrs. Wm. Lockman, 513 N. 4th St., St. Joseph, Mo.

White Plains, N. Y.—"I had such a pain that I could hardly walk and the doctor said that I needed an operation. I was sick for a year before I started taking your medicine and I could not work I saw your advertisement in a little book and that is how I came to take Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines. I have been taking the Vegetable Compound and Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine, also Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash and the capsules and prescription recommended. I am doing all my work and have gained twenty pounds. I am taking the medicines still, but I feel fine. You have my permission to use this letter for the good of others."—Mrs. Mary Mark, 37 Hamilton Ave., White Plains, N. Y.

Some female troubles may through neglect reach a stage when an operation is necessary. But most of the commoner ailments are not the surgical ones; they are not caused by serious displacements, tumors, or growths, although the symptoms may appear the same.

When disturbing ailments first appear, take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve the present distress and prevent more serious troubles. Many letters have been received from women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after operations have been advised by attending physicians.

REAL FIGHT AHEAD ON RATIFICATION OF FOUR POWER TREATY

BITTER DEBATE EXPECTED BUT FRIENDS BELIEVE ALLIANCE WILL WIN

FOUR OF REPUBLICAN SENATORS ARE OPPOSED

Three Are Undecided on the Stand They Will Take Says Mark Sullivan

By MARK SULLIVAN
National Political Correspondent of the New York Evening Post and Wichita Daily Times.
(Copyright, 1922, by the New York Evening Post.)

WASHINGTON, March 8 — Let there be no doubt that there is a real fight ahead of the four-power treaty. The present probability is it will pass. But there will be a long debate, and the chances are that most of the developments of that debate will be adverse to the treaty. Nearly all that can be said in its favor is already known, and most of the speaking in its favor will consist of repetitions of the familiar appeal to confirm the results of the Washington conference.

SULLIVAN

As it stands today, the overwhelming bulk of the republican party is favorable to ratification. Many of the republican senators have doubts, but these doubts are mostly of a kind that can be satisfied by reservations of one sort or another.

Only four republican senators are definitely in opposition. They are Borah of Idaho, LaFollette of Wisconsin, Johnson of California, and France of Maryland. Incidentally, the last three of these come up for renomination and election the coming summer. Johnson, for example, will need to satisfy the voters of his state that he is right at primaries that come in August and the election in November. France will need to do the same thing in September and LaFollette in the same month.

Aside from these four, there are three other republicans who are nearer the area of doubt than any others. These are: McCormack of Illinois, Moses of New Hampshire, and Brandegee of Connecticut. No one of these three has made any public statement of his attitude, but persons who talk with them privately get strongly the idea that their present disposition is to accept the general favorable point of view of the country, and "go along" with the party.

Aside from these seven, the entire republican majority is in one degree or another favorable to ratification. Only some expected development during the debates, or some obvious change in the present attitude of the public would lead to further defections among the republicans.

Where Democrats Stand.

As to the democrats, there are about half a dozen who are implacably hostile to the treaty, and about an equal number who are definitely and strongly favorable to it. But the bulk of the democratic party is on the fence and the attitude of the party as a whole will be determined by events which are in the making this week. The thing is clear: Underwood is not able to deliver his fellow democratic senators as a party. Hardly any of the democrats will be determined in his position, or even in any degree influenced by the fact that Underwood is for the treaty. If Harding thought he was insuring democratic support by making the democratic leader of the senate one of the participants in the conference he will be disappointed.

On the treaty, as well as on some other matters, Pat Harrison of Mississippi comes nearer being the spokesman of what may be called the militant democratic thought in the senate than Underwood.

There is no definite anti-treaty leadership among the democratic senators. They are merely in a state of trying to make up their minds what to do. You talk with one of them on Monday and he expressing a half-hearted intention to vote for ratification. You talk with the same man on Saturday and find he has begun to wonder whether the country may not change its attitude and is going to wait until the debate is over before taking a definite position.

This thing that may be called the sentiment of the country is what will really determine the question. If the country stays where it is now believed to be, namely, in favor of making the Washington conference a clean job by ratifying all of its results, then the considerable body of democrats who have the balance of power will vote that way. But if the country shows signs of being disturbed, if the auspicious and doubts expressed in the opposition speeches find any measurable response among the public, then the treaty will fail.

Public Opinion to Rule.

If the country continues to be so overwhelming favorable to the treat that it would be disposed to show resentment against any formal party action against ratification, the democrats will avoid incurring that odium. The factor that will determine the question will be the crystallization of public opinion; it must be said that on any question of foreign relations it is easier to arouse public opinion in opposition than in favor. It is easier to arouse suspicion over a small objection than to achieve clear popular understanding of the whole of a subject that is both complex and foreign. If Harding and Hughes had the political genius to dramatize the favorable aspects of the treaty and the need of ratifying it they could win.

Lodge has no such genius. The violence of the things he did during the league of nations fight is such that his present sponsorship of the four-power treaty is a liability rather than an asset. It has been suggested that a strong and moving appeal from the president to the country to give an "o k" to his negotiations with foreign governments might bring such a response as would settle the matter. It has also been suggested that Hughes might make a similar appeal, and might say that if the treaty should be rejected he would feel called upon to resign on the theory that the senate was making it impossible for the United States to do business in international way.

Lacking some such strong affirmation by the country of the theory that our international relations must be carried on by the president and his secretary of state, without interference from the senate except under extraordinary conditions, the treaty is in real danger if the president and the secretary of state, who have the responsibility for carrying on our international relations are to remain silent while the senate lays daily and repeated emphasis on the negative side of the question, without any adequate sense of responsibility for getting things done, the senate is likely to win through the sheer mass of its reiterations.

HIGH MEXICO OFFICIALS AGAINST ALCOHOL SAYS A REPORT TO W. C. T. U.

CHICAGO, March 8—President Obregon of Mexico, Senor Calles, head of the department of the interior in that country; Adolfo de la Huerta, secretary of finance, and Licenciado Vascouceles of the department of education, are all "out and outers for ridding Mexico of the alcohol menace," according to a letter received here from Miss Anna Gordon, president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union. The letter states that Senator Heriberto S. Rodriguez announced that at the session of the Mexican congress to be opened in September a measure will be introduced aiming at "doing away with the blighting puque industry."

WINNIPEG, March 8—The Manitoba legislature today unanimously adopted a resolution urging the dominion government to negotiate a trade reciprocity pact between the United States and Canada.

APPROXIMATELY $80 PAID FOR EACH BALE OF COTTON IN POOL

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 8—Checks totaling half a million dollars representing an additional payment of $20 a bale are being mailed this week to members of the Oklahoma Cotton Growers association who disposed of their cotton in pools 6, 7 and 8 of the association it was announced here today. This makes a total of approximately $80 a bale paid to members in these pools.

Additional payments will be made as rapidly as the cotton is sold, officials said. The cotton in pools 6 7 and 8 it was said, consisted of strict middling and middling grades, all 1-inch to 1 1-16 staple.

An advance of approximately $50 a bale at the time of delivery was made to all members who shipped cotton through the association. A second payment of $10 a bale to all pools was made in February.

The total thus far paid by the association to its members approximates $6,000,000, officials said.

Membership Campaign, Trees and Flowers, Sanitary Work, and Help For North Side League Discussed

Membership and subscription campaign for the Wichita Falls Civic League will open Tuesday morning, March 14, and close Tuesday evening. One thousand members is the goal. The league is doing a big civic work and needs more money.

* * *

The league, in co-operation with the city health department, working with Dr. Douglas under the direction of Mrs. M. H. Glover, sanitary chairman, is planning a big clean-up campaign for April. The co-operation of the citizenship is asked and suggestions will be welcome.

* * *

Every householder who has an over-supply of bulbs, rose cuttings or young plants is asked to call Mrs. C. C. Randle, 6353, who will come after and distribute them. Nine tubs of canna bulbs alone were distributed this past month by the Civic League.

* * *

Every housekeeper who has accumulated dishes or utensils that could be parted with is asked to bring or send them to Mrs. T. B. Smock, 704 Denver street. They will be donated to the North Side league for the new community house. This is a specially urgent request.

The Civic league, in meeting Tuesday afternoon, "cleaned up" on the plans for its big spring membership and subscription drive, with detailed plans outlined for the four division leaders by Mrs. J. M. Isbell, membership chairman. Mesdames W. S. Curlee, Hubert Harrison, J. W. Stone and R. E. Hilburn, division leaders, were instructed to meet at the Y. W. C. A. Tuesday morning, March 14, with their committees, each of which will comprise twenty-five or more workers. The leaders were asked to have their committees report at noon at the Y-W and have buffet luncheon, and report at a named hour in the afternoon. The city has been carefully laid off for the campaign, and it is believed that every woman citizen will be given the opportunity of joining the league as a new member, paying up old dues and securing reinstatement, or doing either and subscribing to the league fund. The heavy expense borne by the league the past years was discussed, and the need for subscription money to carry on its service work stressed to the campaign leaders.

Trees and Flowers.

Trees and flowers, in connection with the big beautification work the league has done and is doing, came in for a large share of the discussion Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Walter Curlee reported all but 25 of the 300 trees bought by the league already sold, and Mrs. C. C. Randle reported nine tubs of canna bulbs alone distributed among those who had asked for bulbs. An urgent request for more bulbs, cuttings and young flowers was made, and instances were cited where the league has been directly responsible for the beautification of whole streets, blocks and small communities in the city through the free distribution of bulbs and cuttings to those who could not afford to put sufficient money into them at the time they were asked for. In connection with the tree and flower campaign the league voted thanks to the L. E. Stone Printing company for the tree tags donated, to Moore and Richolt for the lot where the trees were heeled in, and to the city and the fire department for assistance.

North Side Housewarming.

A report from the North Side Civic league, auxiliary of the Wichita Falls organization, was to the effect that the community house across the river is practically completed, but that the league is in debt a little. A housewarming for Friday evening, March 17, was announced, and the assistance of the league asked. Mrs. B. F. Johnson was instructed to take charge of the entertainment plans for the housewarming, in co-operation with the north side members.

A delegation from the Sibley-Taylor Civic league, the youngest auxiliary, was present and made a fine report. The work of that league is spreading all over the community, and men and women are taking an active part in the civic beautification and improvement of the addition. The report was received with a great deal of gratification by the parent league.

Health and Sanitary Work.

Mrs. Glover made a good report on plans for sanitary and health work for the coming weeks, and called a meeting of her committee for Friday afternoon of this week at her home to discuss plans for health display and a clean-up campaign in which the league will co-operate with the city department. Mrs. Glover reported work in co-operation with Mr. Douglas the past month, and stated that the sanitary committee is planning the health display for the coming fair.

Other Matters.

Among other matters, a motion was sustained to recommend to the city council that the council pass a dog-muzzling ordinance if it does not already have one. The league membership heard a request from Mrs. J. A. Kemp, speaking for the local chairman of the French-American rehabilitation work, that all who could do so hear Miss Anne Morgan Sunday afternoon at the Olympic on the relations of France and America and the work being done there by Americans. The talk was announced for 3 o'clock. The league expressed sincere approval and appreciation of the work of Frank Frederick Loew, pianist, whose recital many attended Tuesday evening. Mr. Loew's work as an artist was heartily commended.

TOOK SIX YEARS BUT SHE WON BATTLE FOR TEACHERS' RIGHTS

MRS. G. S. FORSYTHE.

By ALICE ROHE.

NEW YORK, March 7.—"Every time a woman opens the door into new fields all society passes through into a broader life."

The speaker was Mrs. Grace Strachan Forsythe, the first woman associate city superintendent, department of education, of New York city.

Mrs. Forsythe, known all over the country for her fight for woman teachers, has been in the New York schools since 1893. Not once in that time has she failed to tilt a lance to advance the status of what she says should be the noblest vocation of the working woman—teaching.

Have More Rights.

"The rights of teachers?" she repeated, in reply to my query. "Well, the teachers of New York today have more rights than ever before. But someone had to fight the battle. The struggle for equality has been the woman's struggle. The greatest impetus woman suffrage ever had in this state was the teachers' fight for equal pay for equal work."

It was Grace Strachan who led the women teachers' cohorts on to victory and it took her six years to triumph.

"Teachers have never been properly rewarded and women teachers have been the poorest paid of almost any worker. When I began the fight for equal pay some of the women teachers were receiving less pay than the janitor of the building. But now there is no sex discrimination among teachers. We have a good pension and increase salary system. The women teachers today hold an important position in the onward march.

Teachers Fitted.

"When people criticizingly say 'politics' to me, I reply, 'Teachers are especially fitted to understand politics. They should be wide awake to the civic conditions surrounding them. Why should not the women who have the training of future citizens take an interest in social, civil, national, problems?'

"Of course, one of my great offenses in my long career has been to refuse to stay in a rut—another is that I have tried to keep teachers under me out of a rut, and I have as division superintendent 1,000 teachers under me."

While Mrs. Forsythe has been fighting the fight for all women teachers her own advancement is a symbol of their bettered status.

In 1893 she started out a teacher and she has filled almost every position, principal, division superintendent, member of the board of examiners, and now associate city superintendent.

Club Women Hear Musical Program At Tuesday Meet

A record attendance of the Business Women's club, numbering between 120 and 130, was present at the business and program meeting of the club Tuesday evening at the Y. W. C. A., when a musical program under the direction of Mrs. A. B. Britain featured the evening.

The business meeting was brief, and attended to during the supper hour. The secretary and treasurer, Misses Muriel Schofield and Maud Thomas, respectively, read their reports, and several announcements were made, chief among them the announcement of the "mothers' evening program Thursday evening of this week, to which all club members, their mothers and other mothers in the city are invited. The meeting is to be held at the Wichita club.

The service committee chairman introduced Miss Sybil Hays, recently adopted business college protege of the club, who was welcomed with considerable applause.

The membership contest closed the business meeting and was won by Miss Irene Davidson, who was asked to call on Mr. Miller at the Upstairs Garment Shop Tuesday and receive the gift from that store.

Beautiful Program.

The program by Mrs. Britain proved thoroughly delightful, and every number was roundly applauded. Mrs. N. M. Clifford sang two beautiful songs, an Irish love song by Margaret Lang and "If I Were a Rose" by Hesselberg. Miss Emma Frances McFall told about the "Little Boy and the Snake" and "Tired Child's Prayer" in a charming child interpretation, and little Miss Ona Belle Britain gave an interpretative dance. Misses Marian Maer and Cecilia Adickes, with Miss Annette Walsh at the piano, gave a violin duet, "The Old Refrain" and a second number, closing the program as arranged. By a special request from the audience, however, Mrs. Britain played a Chopin waltz.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

RED FEATHER HELPS

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

There slowly took form a white goat with a black head and gold knobs on the ends of his horns.

The dragon (Twelve Toes the Sorcerer he was, really) hadn't gone far when he remembered that although he had stolen all the magic of the Twins, he had forgotten the chocolate cake. And it was very important that he take it along.

He was just about to start up the first of the Seven Mountains, which was made of rubber, when he remembered it.

"Chattering monkeys!" he shrieked, knashing his teeth in rage. "I'll have to go back to my cave, where I left those stupid children. Well, with these Magic Green Shoes on my feet it won't take long."

So back he whisked. There lay the chocolate cake just where he had placed it to entice the children into his cave, on a little wooden table that was covered with a white napkin.

"Well, well!" said Twelve Toes in a quandry, "I can't carry a chocolate cake in this form. I need one of my front feet for carrying the magic paper and the red feater pen (as I have no pocket). And I need my other three feet for walking.

"I'll have to change myself into—"

Just what he was going to say we'll never know, my dears, because something happened at that very minute.

The red feather shot out of his great horny claw like an arrow out of a tightly drawn bow and made straight for the inside of the great dark cave where poor Nancy and Nick were still scrubbing at the sticky spots on the floor.

It flew right for the Cloth of Dreams Nick clutched in his hand, and instantly the cloth fell to the floor. Then turning it flew to Nancy and tore the cloth from her hand also.

The Twins stood up and rubbed their eyes. "Wh—Where are we?" they stammered, getting up to their feet. "Why is it so dark, and where have we been?"

Nancy and Nick stumbled out of the cave into daylight. The red feather had knocked the Cloth of Dreams from their hands to the floor, where its two parts instantly joined into one, as it had been before Twelve Toes the Sorcerer cut it.

Then the red feather jumped into Nick's pocket. At the same time the magic paper slipped from the clutch of the dragon (Twelve Toes, it was, you know) and followed the red feather.

But before the paper disappeared into his pocket Nick saw some words written in purple ink, so he turned his back and peeped at it cautiously. It said, "When the dragon changes his form you and Nancy must watch your chance and grab the Green Shoes."

He put it into his pocket again and stepped out of the cave just in time to see a great puff of black smoke. And as it disappeared there slowly took form a white goat with a block head and gold knobs on the ends of his horns.

But while the goat was sort of settling himself, you might say, the Green Shoes lay for an instant on the ground.

Quick as a wink the Twins grabber them and slipped them on.

At last they had all their magic back with which they had started. The goat stamped around with rage, shaking his head dreadfully.

"What's wrong?" asked Nancy, "does something hurt you?"

"Yes," answered the goat, "my common sense has a dent in it. I used to think I knew what side my bread was buttered on, but I've decided that I don't know anything any more. I shouldn't have come back."

"Did you say bread or head?" asked Nancy.

"This is no place for a joke," answered the goat severely. But talking of bread made him think of the cake. There was a secret about it.

When film-coats make teeth dingy — Pearly teeth which one delights to show — When teeth do not glisten — When film removal makes teeth shine

Teeth People Show

and teeth they don't—the difference lies in a new way to combat film

A new method of cleaning has brought prettier teeth to millions. Also cleaner, safer teeth.

You see the results wherever you look. Teeth now glisten which before were dim. They show in smiles now where folks once concealed them.

This is to tell you the reason, then to urge that you make a free test.

They remove the film

These millions have gained whiter teeth by simply combating film in this new way.

Film is that viscous coat you feel. It clings to teeth, gets between the teeth and stays. The ordinary tooth paste does not effectively combat it. The tooth brush, therefore, has left much of it intact.

Film absorbs stains, making the teeth look dingy. Film is the basis of tartar. That is why teeth become cloudy and discolored. And some teeth—like smokers' teeth—become badly stained.

Film holds food substance which ferments and forms acids. It holds the acids in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Thus most tooth troubles are now traced to film. Those troubles have been constantly increasing for lack of a proper film combatant.

Now you can fight it

Dental science, after long research, has found two ways to fight film. Many careful tests have proved their efficiency. Authorities now advise them, and leading dentists half the world over are urging their adoption.

A scientific tooth paste has been perfected to comply with modern requirements. These two film combatants are embodied in it. So one may now attack that film twice a day at home.

The name of that tooth paste is Pepsodent.

Other new effects

The saliva contains two great tooth-protecting agents. One is a starch digestant. That is to digest starch deposits on teeth before they ferment and form acids. The other is alkali, to neutralize the acids which cause tooth decay.

Certain food elements will multiply those tooth-protecting factors. But modern diet often fails to supply those elements regularly. Authority, therefore, desires the tooth paste to apply that stimulation twice a day.

Pepsodent does that. It multiplies both the starch digestant and the alkalis in the saliva. Every application gives these natural tooth-protecting agents many-fold effects.

Means a new dental era

Old-time tooth pastes, based on soap and chalk, depress these factors in saliva. They reduce this tooth-protecting power on which so much depends. And they do not end the film.

So Pepsodent brings a new dental era to people who employ it. It brings five desired effects which old ways do not bring. So millions of people have come to adopt it, largely by dental advice.

One week will bring delightful changes

Pepsodent will quickly prove itself. The changes which you see and feel will very soon convince you.

Present the coupon this week for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear. Watch how every use leaves the mouth in fresh, alkaline condition.

One week will show you what this method means to you and yours. Go start the test today.

U.S. GOVERNMENT IS SCORED IN REPORT ON SUGAR INDUSTRY

DECLARES CONTROL COST THE PEOPLE HUNDREDS OF MILLIONS

SAYS THE LAW OF SUPPLY AND DEMAND INEXORABLE

Question is Discussed by President of American Sugar Refining Company

NEW YORK, March 8—Severe condemnation of the government control of the sugar industry is contained in the annual report of Earl D Babst, president of the American Sugar Refining company which was read to the stockholders at a meeting in Jersey City today

"For these experiments of control and of decontrol," he said, "the people of the United States and of the world have paid hundreds of millions of dollars The magnificent sugar industry of the United States, including the producers and refiners, both beet and cane whether of continental United States, the Philippines, Hawaii, Porto Rico or of Cuba, have paid almost with its life. United States investments in the hands of hundreds of thousands of people amounting to several billions of dollars have been placed in jeopardy

"The United States sugar industry was decontrolled by legislative fiat and executive order without proper regard to elementary economic laws."

The report shows a loss on operation of $2 177 278 during 1921 Surplus was drawn on for $5 311,367 to meet operating losses and to provide for dividends declared The operating losses were attributed to steadily declining prices. The total tonnage of the country equaled that of the year before and the volume of business amounted to $140 000 000 Balance of surplus and reserves amount to more than $29 000 000

"The events of 1921," the report declared, 'are merely a continuance of those of 1920, all incident to the disastrous attempt by our government to decontrol a world staple for two years held below its world parity without the caution of accumulating stocks or of taking any other preparatory measure for the transition While the final effect on the refiners and producers of the United States both beet and cane has been most disastrous yet the abject distress of Cuba has been the outstanding feature of the year Cuba has had to bear not only the burden of its ordinary crop, but of its stimulated production

"So violent was Cuba's reaction that most of its banks were carried away In the stress of its financial needs, it too, undertook the risk of sugar control The Cuba cane industry like others, has learned the peril of government control.

Is it now time for the public who must in the end pay the bill on every pound of sugar they buy' the report continued "to insist that the sugar industry be given a rest from any further control or experiments of any kind of any name, of any device and be given an opportunity to recover its position under its own direction and administration In any event, whoever undertakes to produce further artificial measures in the present complicated position of the sugar industry does so at great risk and under grave responsibilities to the entire people of the United States

"The refiner stands between the producer and the consumer and usually bears the burden of the consumer's complaints but he will assume no responsibility for the high prices which will come with any artificial crop curtailment or other experiments The people of the United States understands that the government stepped into the sugar situation during the war but certainly they will be unwilling to pay the price of any further experiments or any efforts to exploit the disaster of control to the advantage of any section of the industry.

"The law of supply and demand is inexorable in itself and before it all people, whether governments or individuals, whether legislators or consumers, still must yield"

PRESIDENT DECLARES PROGRESS MADE WITH AGRICULTURAL PLANS

WASHINGTON, March 8—Declaration that "we are making splendid progress toward dissipation of our agricultural difficulties" is made by President Harding in a letter to Eugene V. Meyer Jr., managing director of the war finance corporation made public today at the white house.

The president in his letter, which was in reply to one from Director Meyer, detailed the work of the war finance corporation, said "cheering" evidence had been presented to show that "we are moving fast towards establishing that necessary balance" between the selling price of the producer and the costs to the consumer.

"I think we all recognize," the president added, "that when stability, prosperity and confidence shall have been restored to agriculture, the country will have progressed far on the way to general resumption of prosperous activity"

Approval was given by Mr. Harding to a plan that Mr Meyer make a trip through the agricultural sections of the country. The executive informed Mr. Meyer that he desired him to study especially during the proposed trip dealings of the war finance corporation with various cooperative marketing associations, creation of facilities for the organization of which the president had recommended to congress.

NOVEL AND UNUSUAL FEATURES IN BRIEF IN SUPREME COURT

FILED BY GOVERNMENT IN THE CHILD LABOR LAW CASES

SHAKESPEARE IS QUOTED BY SOLICITOR GENERAL

Also Present a Historical Paper Dealing With French Revolution

WASHINGTON, March 8—A brief of many novel and unusual features has been filed in the supreme court by the government in the child labor law cases argument on which was begun late yesterday In it Solicitor General Beck quotes Shakespeare at length in support of the contention that "unless the people themselves awaken to the fact that they themselves must defend and preserve their own institutions and not rely wholly upon this court as a tutelary guardian," a serious if not revolutionary condition may develop The brief also through an appendix, presents a historical paper on the French revolution, while parallel column methods are utilized to emphasize parts of the government argument Another interesting departure from time honored practices is that part of the brief in which the government has recourse to questions and answers It reads in part

"Q Has a federal government the power to impose an excise tax?

"A. It certainly has.

"Q Does the statute in question impose an excise tax?

"A It certainly does. . . .

"Q. Is this a tax in fact as well as in form?

"A It certainly is"

The opponents of the tax contend it is an unconstitutional interference with the police powers of the states and in support of their assertion that the law was not a proper exercise of the federal taxing power, the court is asked to consider the motive as explained by senators while the measure was pending

Several chapters on the constitutional jurisdiction of the court are given by the solicitor general in support of the government's contention that the judiciary can not inquire into the motives of congress when its act on its face is a legitimate exercise of one of its reserved powers.

At the same time the Italian government through its representative at Belgrade had communicated its decision to take energetic measures to restore order and reestablish conditions as provided for in the treaty

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 8, 1922.

WAS HE GUILTY?

English newspapers, just arrived in the mail, say that "Bluebeard" Landru had an unfair trial in France—that the judge repeatedly taunted him—that it is difficult to believe that such a farcical trial could take place in any modern civilized

In following Landru's trial, you may have noticed that the prosecution did not produce the body or skeleton of any of his alleged victims.

Fragments of charred bones were found under his country residence, buried in the cellar. Experts expressed the opinion that these were the bones of human.

That sort of evidence wouldn't have carried much weight in America.

In France, they have the Napoleonic criminal code. By it, the accused is presumed guilty until he proves himself innocent.

In America, a defendant is presumed innocent until proved guilty. In giving a presumed criminal the benefit of the doubt, we even go as far as to say that his wife cannot be made to testify against him.

We go further and decree that anything confided in a professional capacity to his attorney, physician or clergy cannot be admitted as legal convincing evidence

This is the rule, throughout the whole of the North American continent, except in the province of Quebec, Canada. Like France, Quebec has the Napoleonic criminal code.

By curious coincidence, it was claimed at the last moment that two of Landru's alleged victims had been found buried in Montreal, Quebec. The discovery was cabled to France, but it didn't halt Landru's execution.

Observe that Landru was beheaded without actual proof that any of his alleged victims were dead. That couldn't happen in our country.

Landru's head has been chopped off, and technicalities of court procedure no longer interest him.

But it may be that, of all things happening on earth in the year 1922, nothing will be remembered 10,000 years from now except Landru's death. He may become a mythological character, a folk-lore being like Gog and Magog.

That would please him, for it would satify his vanity, which, after all, was all that he existed for.

HARD SAILING AHEAD FOR THE "FOUR POWER" TREATY

It now appears that the "Four Power" Pacific treaty will not have the easy sailing to ratification by the United States senate that first appeared. There are now said to be 31 democrats and four republicans opposed to ratification. An absentee or two of those favoring the treaty and the conversion of one or two to the opposition would mean the defeat of this proposed Japan-British-United States-France alliance.

The naval reduction treaty would likely go by the board if the "Four Power" treaty were to fail and all of the work of the Washington conference would probably fail.

The League of Nations is likely to have a large part in the forthcoming debate upon the "Four Power" treaty. Leaders in the democratic party are opposing the treaty upon the grounds that it takes the United States into an alliance that is out of harmony with the League of Nations and that is likely to entangle this country into other alliances and bring future trouble. Former President Wilson is said to incline to this view although he is taking no part in opposing the treaty in the senate.

On the other hand William Jennings Bryan declares the treaty is a continuation of the arbitration treaties negotiated by him as secretary of state and that they are not out of harmony with the League of Nations and declares that when democrats vote for the treaty they are simply approving their own policy.

Republicans who will oppose the treaty, such as Borah, will do so because they not only believe it is an alliance but because they believe it is too much like the League of Nations. All of these factors ought to make the forthcoming debate upon the treaty highly interesting.

A GOOD PLATFORM FOR ALL AMERICANS

Masked men entered the home of a Dallas man a few nights ago, seized him, took him to the outskirts of the city, beat him severely and ordered him to leave Dallas.

Mayor Aldredge of Dallas has announced that he will recommend to the city commission that it offer a reward of $250.00 for information leading to the arrest of the persons guilty of this act of lawlessness and in connection with this announcement he has issued a statement in which he says:

"There are courts to enforce our laws in Texas. They are just courts and speedy courts. If a person has a grievance against another, or if his decency or that of his family, or that of the general public is outraged, satisfaction can be readily gained and the offender made to suffer a just penalty by calling the attention of the police to the case. That is the way we take care of such things in Dallas. The city will not tolerate the action of any individual, or group of individuals, not vested with the proper authority, who seek to take the administration of the law into their own hands."

This is a mighty good platform and one on which all American citizens and officials ought to stand. Any other leads to anarchy and terrorism. It would be a most wholesome thing if those guilty of this unlawful attack in Dallas could be apprehended and convicted.

THE VERY IMPUDENCE OF IT

(Houston Post)

"Mr. Lasker declared that without a well balanced and adequate merchant marine the country could not be properly developed." This from the Associated Press account of the convention of the National Merchant Marine association of New York.

The purpose of the association is, of course, to filch from the pockets of the people of the United States a large gratuity for sailing the ships owned or operated by its members.

But what of Mr. Lasker's nonsense about the impossibility of the country developing without "an adequate"—which means a subsidized—merchant marine?

This country hasn't had much of a merchant marine for 60 years, yet no country of the world has developed so rapidly. In a general way, the country has developed quite as rapidly as was good for it, if not more rapidly than its best interests required.

It has developed a grain production beyond its ability to consume or sell.

It has developed a cotton production beyond its ability to consume or sell.

It has developed a lumber production beyond its ability to consume or sell.

It has developed a meat production beyond its ability to consume or sell.

It has developed an oil and oil products abundance beyond its ability to consume or sell.

It has attracted millions of immigrants from Europe beyond its capacity to employ or assimilate.

What is the matter with the country's development, anyway?

There was never such development in the history of the human race, and all of it has been accomplished in the absence of a subsidized merchant marine?

How would a subsidy-grabbing shipping combination stimulate the dead markets of the world where ever we sold our surpluses of cotton, grain, meat and other products"

It is not denied that there are hundreds of ships idle for want of cargo, or that they would be glad to carry our heavy stocks to any point in the world, if we could find the markets, and at rates far under the rates the subsidy grabbers would charge.

There is no lack of American products, there is no lack of bottoms. There is no lack of need. No lack of consuming power.

But there is lack of buying power in every country in the world—even in our own country.

In what way would the subsidy graft-hunters help our market for cotton in Germany, Italy, France, Russia or elsewhere? Would it enable those fiat-cursed people to buy our moldering stocks? Would it impart buying power to the paper flood now inundating the European continent?

The development of this country depends upon the restoration of its productive industry by the rehabilitation of both domestic and foreign trade. There never has been a time when our trade failed for lack of ships. If we can not sail the hundred of cheap vessels constructed during the war without taxing the already overburdened producers, then there are other bottoms ready to serve us at low rates. But neither low rates nor free transportation could suffice in the absence of buying power among our prospective customers.

Whatever may be the baffling elements of our problems and whatever may be the capacity of the subsidy hunters, we think the nation ought to be spared such an insult to its intelligence as that proffered by Chairman Lasker in his endorsement of the subsidy.

The proper development of the United States—its resources, its trade, its industry, or the idealism of its people—is not remotely dependant upon the audacious onslaught the ship subsidy grabbers are launching against the public treasury and the pockets of the people.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ON EDITING THE WORLD.

Taking things as they come—and being a "good scout" about it—is one method of attaining a happy experience.

But the way to wisdom is not by accepting everything at its face value. The world has to be edited just like a piece of good writing.

For we must all make the world our own—and fit its offerings to our needs and our abilities.

We must never criticise or take away except when we have something better to offer as a substitute.

The great editor improves the piece edited.

To those who see in this world something very wonderful, there are constant opportunities for growth and happiness—while to those who are blind, this is no world at all—just a state of existence.

The other day I had occasion to see a piece of land which but a year ago was all swamp and twisted trees. Now it is ready for homes to be built upon. The engineers and workers have drained and filled in and cut out until this land has become useful and valuable.

It is possible for the world to be a veritable masterpiece to you.

But you will have to edit it and make it your own. The world is never quite the same to any two persons.

Each pair of eyes leads a very different impression to every two brains.

Our personalities are developed as we are compelled to create and revise all that we do. No two human beings ever saw the same beauty in a sunset or in some rare design of nature. It is only as we determine that this world has things distinctly for us that we accumulate power and render influence.

But be bold! Ask as few questions as possible. Think and solve much of what you hope to be by yourself and through yourself.

Keep making everything you touch in thought and example—better!

THE JOYS OF NOW.

These are the days we shall talk about
In the years to come, my brother,
These are the days we shall single out
As richer than any other;
When Time has silvered each wrinkled brow
Then we shall treasure the friends of now.

Today we are building our Long Ago,
These are our happy years,
These are the joys we shall yearn to know
And see through the mist of tears;
This is the street and these the trees
That shall brighten our glorious memories.

These are the tales we shall gladly tell
To our children's children then,
This is the youth with its magic spell
We shall live in our dreams again,
And we shall discover what now is hid—
The joy there was in the deeds we did.

But now we hastily pass them by
And the laughter is swiftly sped,
We look on joy with a careless eye
While memory waits ahead;
But these shall dawn with a brighter glow
When time has made them our long ago.

These are the friends we shall long to see
And these are the days, my brother,
That we shall keep in our memory
As fairer than any other;
So let us treasure them while we may,
Nor wait till we find they have slipped away.

YOU AND I

SECRETS

Five of Chicago's largest banks were served with subpoenas duces tecum, commanding them to produce "certain of their books and papers" in court This is in connection with the trial of Governor Len Small.

The average man has a notion that his bank account is secrecy in the 33rd degree, and that it cannot be pried into by anyone, not even Uncle Sam.

"Why," exclaimed an indignant attorney, "they can't put you in jail for refusing to pay that bill."

"No," admitted the client behind the bars, "but here I am."

Government can do anything—when it really wants to.

EXPANDING

At Negishi, Japan, the Ford branch plant is turning out 15 finished cars a day. Little items like this are pouring in by the thousands from many foreign countries.

American manufacturers are setting the stage for tremendous expansion abroad. Wherever there's a remote market worth developing you'll find an American engineer, salesman or trade scout hovering and whistling softly between his teeth.

Too bad, the diplomats are not as far-sighted as the business men.

BETTER

This should give heart failure to pessimists: Latest report shows that the railroads in one week load 32,000 more cars of freight than in the corresponding week of last year and 100,000 more than in 1919, when times were booming.

A lot of us are barking up the wrong tree.

It's profits that are low, rather than business.

JAPAN

Japan has only 10,500 autos and 4,500 of them are Fords. This is the latest estimate from Tokio

On a basis of population, our country has about 500 times as many motor cars as Japan.

Nippon has a long way to go before it catches up with our industrial development and standard of living The Rising Sun is barely over the horizon.

MARKS

The number of marks that in 1914 bought a good winter overcoat in Berlin now buys only the velvet collar for it. Before the war 5,000 marks was a comfortable yearly income for a German of the middle classes. Now an ordinary carpet for a small room costs that much

Prosperity, in all countries, is a matter of buying power, not of the amount of money the average man can get.

Think in terms of buying power instead of face value of money, and you are a sound economist.

INTEREST

In 1897 George Jones borrowed $100 from Henry R. Stuart He agreed to pay 10 per cent interest a month.

Stuart sues for the principal of the loan, along with accrued interest. He gets a judgment in court at San Jose, Cal., for nearly 395 trillions of dollars.

There isn't enough money in the world to pay it.

It's an important incident, though, illustrating the power of compound interest to bring wealth to the thrifty.

Compound interest is the only universal road to financial independence.

AUTO SHOW TO END WEDNESDAY NIGHT; CROWDS CONTINUE

With three successful days already to its credit, the automobile show opened Wednesday on its final day. The various exhibits will be broken up early Thursday morning and the third annual official bow to the Wichita Falls Automotive Dealers association will have become history.

Running true to form, the show Tuesday afternoon and night continued to set new attendance records. The throngs that crowded through the isles in the Motor Supply buildings yesterday were at least as large, if not larger, than those on previous days and the interest in the machines on display increased rather than diminished.

The Doc Ross orchestra continued as one of the principal attractions, and for the first time Tuesday night they had opposition. A four-piece negro orchestra, augmented by a vocalist of considerable lung power, was stationed in the accessory rooms throughout the evening and furnished entertainment for the crowds that found their way into this department.

Wednesday a male quartett composed of four local vocalists will be on deck as well as the two orchestras. Ben Neal, Paul Von Allman and Grover Bullington will be three of the four, while the last member is yet to be selected.

The largest crowd of the year is expected tonight.

SCOUT CAGERS TO COMPETE FRIDAY FOR CITY HONORS

Elimination games to decide the champion boy scout basketball team of the city will start at the American Legion hall next Friday night with two games as the attraction. Four teams are tied for first place in the tourney at present and two of them will be eliminated in the Friday matches.

Troops 2 and troop 6 will mix it in the first game and will be followed by troop 4 matched with troop 15. The two winners will meet some time next week to settle the scrap for the title.

A 10-cent admission will be charged all boy scouts in the city while adults will be charged 25 cents to witness the baffles. The first game starts promptly at 7:45.

Scout officials indicated Wednesday that a game with the Lawton, Okla., scout team might be arranged here by the winners of the scout trophy. No definite steps have been taken in this direction as yet, however.

SENATOR CAPPER OUTLINES THE FIGHT ONLY BEGUN, HE DECLARES NEW OBJECTIVES OF FARM BLOC;

By HARRY HUNT.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—"The farm bloc has only begun to fight."

That is the message of Senator Capper of Kansas, new leader of the agricultural bloc in the United States senate, who inherited leadership when Senator Kenyon resigned to go on the federal bench.

"The legislation in which the bloc has been most active to date," Capper explains in discussing his plans for the future of the bi-partisan agricultural group, "has been in the main emergency measures.

"We are now facing, however, the task of getting into law matters that must form a great, constructive, national agricultural policy.

"Of first importance to agriculture are lower freight rates. We cannot get back anywhere near to normal until these rates are lowered. Although it is doubtful that there is a great deal that congress can do in this line, the matter of rates being in the hands of the interstate commerce commission there are two or three things which would help. Among these are:

"First — Repeal the guarantee clause of the Esch-Cummings act.

"Second—Restore to state railway commissions power to correct abuses and discriminations in local rates.

"Third—Enact the bill, already passed by the senate, revising the valuation powers of the I. C. C., reducing by about three billions the present recognized valuation of the railways. There is no doubt but the value now recognized is far in excess of real values.

Next to the matter of transportation, is the question of agricultural credits. We are just now getting shaped up a new credit bill, based on the findings of the joint agricultural commission, which would set up new machinery for more adequate credit facilities through the federal farm loan board.

"There is now a gap between the short-term 60-day and 90-day paper, and the long-term mortgage loan on land, which must be filled.

"There is a need for credits running from six months to three years, to farmers and stock raisers to enable them to make the necessary turnover in their products.

"The result of the present financial system, devised to fit business, not agriculture, is that the farmer must often market under the most unfavorable conditions.

"Next come the problems of marketing. One of the biggest things this government can do, I believe, is to shape up a new and efficient code or system of marketing its agricultural products. This is in the interest of the consumer as much as of the producer.

"Today the United States has the costliest and most efficient system of marketing of any country in the world.

"That the farm bloc has been able to get things done is due to the fact that the things for which it has fought have been fundamentally correct. Among the more notable of these measures have been:

"First—The Capper-Volstead cooperative marketing bill.

"Second—The future trading bill regulating grain exchanges.

"Third—The revival of the war finance corporation as an aid to helping move farm products.

"Fourth—Increasing funds available for loans by the farm loan board of $50,000,000.

"Fifth—Passage by the senate of the bill giving agriculture a representative on the federal reserve board.

"The farm bloc is going to allow no letup in its activities. There is a big job ahead, and the biggest proposition is to work out a constructive national program for agriculture.

"All developments of the past 10 years have shown that conditions are fundamentally bad with respect to agriculture.

"There has been a steady drift from the farm to the city.

"There have been smaller and smaller profits for farmers.

"Tenancy has steadily increased.

"An altogether alarming situation requires that congress act to put agriculture on its feet.

"The bloc has been fighting along economic, not party lines. It represents a union of those forces interested in helping agriculture and general economic conditions regardless of party affiliations.

"I do not believe the bloc will develop any new party alignment. But it will hold, on economic questions affecting agriculture, a strong bipartisan following."

Daily market reports will be obtained from the central markets of the country through the Kansas City office of the United States bureau of markets and crop estimates, and from other sections of the country through other agencies. The data will be collected and compiled by the state departments and will be disseminated by means of the university high power radio station. The service will be known as the "Texas Radio News Market Service."

There are many radio clubs in the state and hundreds of radio receiving stations fully equipped to receive radio phone messages. Probably various chambers of commerce will desire to make their organizations the news centers of their communities by posting bulletins and relaying the news by telephone. The news will be sent out from the university station at some time most convenient for the use of the newspapers of the state.

The WRONG FACE

By ISABEL OSTRANDER

The jar was half filled with a creamy white substance, and Barry carried it to one of the windows and deposited it upon the sill. Then drawing the cover of the gas mask from his pocket, together with a small but powerful microscope he fell to examining the finger marks upon it, comparing them to those which, in the fading light were yet plainly visible in the grease upon the outer side of the jar.

This jar of French cold cream must have belonged to Fay. The finger prints upon it were identical with those upon the gas mask case.

The mask had been worn by some one in the room of death on the previous night, the odor of carbon monoxide was proof of that, and the theory that now sprang to his mind was without a flaw. However reluctantly he entertained it, he was compelled to admit that any other hypothesis would be impossible. The girl was not innocent but merely a superb actress after all!

She must have worn that mask and remained in the room while she accomplished her cousin's death.

The slippers, the gas mask, the cold cream jar, the knowledge that the other girl had supplanted her with her former lover—all these combined with the possible evidence of the little box, which still remained in his pocket, heaped up a sinister proof against Fay Tudor.

Barry paused midway of the back stairs and struck the rail sofly with his clenched fist. "What a fool he had been! What had been Fay Tudor's exact words when she mentioned her brother's effects?"

"Did I tell you the other day that I went in the locked room where all his belongings which you so kindly brought home to us have been placed? I saw his helmet and his gas mask, but there were stains upon it."

Now there had been no stains such as she implied upon the mask when he examined it a short time before, but on the case which reposed in his pocket were several faint but unmistakable traces of dried blood. She could not have detected them in the dimness of the room unless she had taken the cover up in her hands and the sight of the stains must have revolted her so that she replaced the case unopened.

Someone else must have entered that room during the night before, someone who was careful to leave no traces or finger marks. But who?

Continuing on his way downstairs Barry entered the kitchen where he found the cook weeping over her preparations for dinner. He beat a hasty retreat to the pantry.

There he discovered pretty Louise, the waitress.

"Louise," he began, seating himself unconcernedly upon the edge of the table, "were there guests last night for dinner?"

"No, sir, just Mr. Clayton and he's here so often that he seems like one of the family." The words came in a loquacious little rush. "He and Mrs. Tudor had coffee together out on the porch afterward."

"Only he and Mrs. Tudor? Didn't the young ladies take coffee?"

"No, sir. Poor Miss Laurel never does, and Miss Fay came back so nervous that the doctor forbid her having any for fear that she won't sleep nights. That's been her greatest trouble, insomnia, they call it."

"Insomnia?" Barry drew a deep breath and for a moment his hand strayed toward the pocket where reposed the little box of powders which he had taken from the bathroom upstairs.

"That's too bad! Doesn't the doctor give her something to make her sleep—medicine I mean?"

"Only hot milk. Last night she drank it directly after dinner and Miss Laurel, poor thing, had some with her."

"Are you sure?" asked Barry quickly.

"Well, I took it up to them myself and in the morning after—after they had carried poor Miss Laurel away and I went in with Martha to take the breakfast things downstairs I found the tall glasses and the milk jug there empty."

"Were the two young ladies alone when you took the milk up?"

"Of course."

On the porch a table had been laid for the sheriff and Barry and at Mrs. Tudor's insistence they had both remained for dinner.

"Have you found anything that's worth looking into?" Barry demanded.

Sheriff Hulse chuckled.

"'Worth looking into?'" he repeated. "My boy, we've been looking into it for days in advance, only we didn't know it."

"In advance?" echoed Barry. "What in the world do you mean?"

"That feller that's been frightening servants, stealing boot cushions and clothes and getting in and out of houses without anybody knowing how he does it. He's the one we're after and we mean to look out to nab him tonight if we can."

"Who's he?" Barry inquired.

"The two gentlemen that are here for dinner tonight and Frank and me. You can come along if you want to," Hulse responded patronizingly. "It seems that Frank has been scouting around most of the afternoon and he thinks he has found traces."

The sergeant accepted Hulse's invitation to the man hunt that evening carelessly enough, but as soon as dinner was over managed to elude him and enter the hall just as the others emerged from the dining room.

Fay Tudor caught his eye and, with a gesture so slight as to be imperceptible to the rest, he motioned toward the drawing-room.

"Did you wish to see me alone?" she asked in a breathless tone.

"Miss Tudor, I understand that you are a sufferer from insomnia, do you ever take anything for it except hot milk?"

"No, that is not lately."

"But you have taken medicine for it? Powders of some sort?"

A quick light of sudden interest rather than of alarm, sprang into her eyes.

"How did you know?" she asked, then added hastily, "A physician in Paris recommended a sort of powder. They worked like magic but I discontinued their use more than two months ago because they made my head feel so congested after each dose."

"Did you bring any of them to this country—the powders I mean?" Barry inquired.

"Yes, I believe I did. There had been a slight pause but her reply came in the half-bewildered tone of one who had been searching for a memory. I had the prescription filled again the day before we left Paris."

"How many powders were contained in the prescription?" Barry ignored her query.

"Twelve." She bit her lips and then cried sharply. "The box was untouched when I arrived here. Don't tell me Sergeant Barry that it has been tampered with! I—I felt this morning—I mean it seemed to me that my head fell just as it used to do when I had taken a double dose of the stuff."

"I want the case dropped"

Barry's hand went to his pocket and he drew forth the little box and gave it to her. "Is this it?" he asked eagerly.

"Yes, it is it, of course." Then she opened it and a wave of astonishment and horror swept over her face. "Why there are only six here! Half of them are gone. If anyone had taken them all they would never have wakened."

"What would be the effect of three?"

"I don't know. I have never taken more than two, but I fancy that three would prove a slumber more profound even than an anesthetic brings and which would make one sleep until the effects had worn off and then be very ill afterward. Sergeant Barry, is that what was the matter with me this morning? I told you how dazed I was and how my head ached. Did someone drug me?" I half suspected it when I learned that Laurel had been murdered there practically beside me and I had slept so stolidly through it all."

"I don't know," Barry replied, adding in a significant tone, "Did your hot milk taste all right last night, Miss Tudor?"

"The hot milk," she exclaimed. "I don't think that it did now that you remind me of it. It seems to me that there was a chalky quality in it and the touch of acridness that one sometimes notices in buttermilk—something like fermentation. But Laurel drank it with me! She took more than I. Could those powders have been mixed with it, and killed her?"

"No, it would only have produced a sleep a little more profound than your own," Barry replied. "You may be affected slightly from your share of it this morning but I think something else was the matter too. The symptoms you described to me are identical with those induced by a slight inhalation of the gas which filled your room."

"Mrs. Tudor's gentle voice sounded from the porch. 'My dear, where are you?'"

Calling directly Aunt Clara. Fay turned to the detective in swift dismay. "Oh, you are right, I must go!"

"Just one question more," Barry detained her with a gesture. "I thought that Captain Warren was a great deal to your aunt as he is to the neighborhood. How does it happen that he dined here tonight?"

"He has offered his services to us as has Mr. Clayton to help us through this dreadful time and my aunt gladly accepted. The sheriff insisted on my going with him tonight to see if I could lose him after the man who has been lurking about and that is why they remained to dinner."

"I see. I'm sure I do not feel offended, Miss Tudor, at any question I may ask. I think you can help me more than anyone else to discover the truth."

When she had gone he replaced in his pocket the box which the girl had given back to him and was turning to the rear of the hall when the rustle of a skirt sounded behind him and wheeling about he saw Mrs. Tudor standing in the doorway.

Sergeant Barry, she said tensely, you must come with me, we can talk quietly. I want the case dropped.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel.

The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a torpid liver. Try them.

BOARD PLANS FOR BEAUTIFICATION OF SCHOOL GROUNDS

At a meeting of the school board Tuesday night plans for the purchase and setting out of more trees and shrubs on school property in this city were approved with instructions that the work be carried on actively. Other matters taken up at the meeting were entirely of a routine nature.

The beautification of school grounds was started some time ago when a large number of trees and small shrubs were bought by the board. School buildings that are known to be permanent and grounds that will not be torn up for the erection of new buildings in the near future are to benefit most by the campaign. A definite plan for improvement has been prepared and will be closely followed.

Tentative plans for the new high school, prepared by W. B. Ittner of St. Louis were turned over to the building committee of the board but no action was taken and none is expected for some little time. The plans were brought here from Chicago by Supt. Lee Clark who conferred with Mr. Ittner last week at the national educational convention in that city.

DECLARES IDEA OF SELF-SUFFICIENCY HARMING AMERICA

A birds-eye view of international affairs chiefly as they affect America today was given members of the Lions club at their weekly meeting Wednesday by Dr. Herbert Yeuell traveler and chautauqua lecturer who is speaking at the First Christian church each evening this week.

Taking for his subject "The Pillars of Hercules" Dr. Yeuell passed rapidly over the history of early Spain and of the effect produced by the old Spanish slogan "ne plus ultra—no more beyond." This old idea, the speaker declared, was responsible for Spain's present status as an international nonentity and was the immediate cause of her retrogation.

"The Spanish rock-bound coast, known as 'The Pillars of Hercules,' served Spain as a limitation and inspired her thought of no more beyond," he said in substance.

"This belief that Spain was all powerful and self sufficing ultimately conduced her downfall."

From this Dr. Yeuell pointed out that America today was displaying a marked tendency toward the old ne plus ultra theory and that she was showing too much confidence in her ability to be entirely self-sustaining. The matter of immigration restriction was one challenging attention he declared, and the policy of boycotting Germany was also one worthy of note. In short he said America was evincing too much interest in herself and not enough in others and that this ne plus ultra spirit or the idea that it within itself can give nothing to or gain anything from others, was a vital fault in its success.

The address gave many entirely new angles on international affairs and presented in condensed form what all the international problems in which America is now interested.

It was a timely with no claim by the Lions who tendered Dr. Yeuell a rising vote of thanks for his talk at its conclusion.

Routine matters made up the business meeting of the day.

None of the Cubs made such an impressive opening at the start of training as Snowball Simpson. As soon as the players arrived at Catalina Island, Snowball showed them how to get away with baseball. And an official baseball is nine inches in circumference!

Billy Evans says

Recently the Yale News, in discussing football reforms, suggested a board of control in athletics to govern conditions that present themselves from time to time is advisable.

The Harvard Crimson replies that such a board would further emphasize the overorganization of football. It suggests the following changes in football customs:

"Abolish Walter Camp's and all other All-American mythical teams. Also cut down all publicity as far as possible.

"Abolish all summer or pre-college team practice. For college teams to go south to train is ridiculous. It savors too much of the professional in baseball.

"Abolish all advertising of any intentional sort of intercollegiate contests. Eliminate as far as possible intersectional contests. Play teams of as nearly equal strength as it is possible to secure.

"The matter of subsidized athletes, clean professional coaching, and the socalled tramp athlete are not problems which can be successfully dealt with by rule. No college need have any of these if it does not so choose."

Some of the suggestions made by the Harvard Crimson sot well, others can be classed as ridiculous. There is nothing very much wrong with football. It has grown so rapidly and public interest has become so great, that in some ways it has gotton beyond the control of the colleges.

Everyone will heartily agree that the socalled tramp athlete is a bad thing for the colleges. Yet no college need countenance the tramp athlete or subsidized athletes. That is purely up to the colleges, as the Crimson says.

It is foolish, however, to suggest that All-American teams be abolished. Possibly such a thing would be a good move, yet how are you going to do it. Walter Camp is going to pick his All-American team just as long as he lives. All the other experts are going to do likewise.

The public likes to read about the last word in every branch of sport. In football these All-American teams are supposed to represent the cream of the gridiron talent. Just so long as the public falls for them, the experts are going to pick 'em.

If the colleges didn't care for publicity and big crowds, they should have never built stadiums seating from 40,000 to 80,000 people. Limited seating capacity would have kept down public interest. News is news and is going to be printed. In the fall, football provides news, and it is going to be told to the world.

Football needs mighty little reforming. It is a great game for red blooded Americans. It has become very popular, so why deprive the public of seeing a game that offers the cleanest of sport?

Spring Training Gossip
By Billy Evans

The college, amateur and semi-pro players are going to get a big chance in the training camps this year.

The failure to get the minors to agree to a universal draft plan is the cause. Having their field curtailed, the major league magnates have invaded the ranks of the collegians, amateurs and semi-pros.

The remarkable success achieved by Frankie Frische of Fordham college as a member of the Giants, has caused the major league magnates to give considerable attention to the collegian. In the spring every important college game has its full quota of scouts.

The Cleveland club has found the college a worthwhile institution for developing major league talent. University of Alabama has sent some worthy timber to Manager Speaker. Joe Sewell, now rated a star shortstop, got his start there. Second baseman Stephenson and catcher Luke Sewell are also Alabama alumni.

In the preliminary work this spring much interest will center around Glen Killinger with the New York Yankees and Johnny Mohardt of Notre Dame, who goes to Detroit.

It is a rather interesting fact that Killinger and Mohardt were two of the most talked about football players in the country last fall. Killinger was given a place on Walter Camp's All-America eleven. Mohardt was so honored by many other football critics.

Killinger is an infielder. At Penn State he played about every position on the infield. Hugo Bezdek, who coached Penn State in baseball as well as football, says Killinger is ready for the big show.

Bezdek says Killinger is best at third base. In all probability he will be worked out at that position by the Yankees. It is a certainty that Frank Baker will play only a few more years. If Killinger has the goods he has a real chance with the Yankees.

Johnny Mohardt is a pitcher. Mohardt is evidently a very bright young man. He has brains as rated college. If he can apply them to the ball field he will have an additional advantage.

In college football and baseball Mohardt is regarded as the last word. He was one of the best backfield men in the country. He had few equals at hurling the forward. Aside fro mthe great success he of the best college pitchers in the country. He also won his letter in track.

Aside from the great success he had in athletic circles, Mohardt was also a brilliant student. He has completed one of the most difficult courses at Notre Dame with an average better than 90 for his four years' work. Few students have graduated from Notre Dame with a better average.

Mohardt, although weighing only 165, has a powerful physique. In three years of football, with the exception of a broken nose, he has never been seriously hurt. Manager Cobb of Detroit is hopeful he will emulate his college deeds on the American league diamond.

MOGULS DECLINE TO DISCUSS SALARY OF BABE RUTH OPENLY

NEW YORK, March 8.—George Wright, star shortstop of the Cincinnati Red Stockings, played throughout the entire season of 1869 for a salary of $1200. Wright was the highest paid member of the team.

Babe Ruth signed a contract with the New York American league club which will net him approximately $75,000 during the coming season. If continued for the full five years, George Herman Ruth will receive a total of not less than $375,000. These figures are the cause of frequent conferences behind closed doors in which baseball magnates argue the question as to whether they are building a salary Frankenstein which will in the end turn and destroy what has been in the past a reasonably profitable business. Big league baseball club owners will not discuss publicly this project except in the most abstract way. It is the consensus of opinion as expressed by the magnates, however, that the situation is serious.

It is estimated that the salary lists of ten clubs of the two major leagues will aggregate more than $2,000,000 this season. The maximum figures for any one club are placed at about $225,000 and the minimum figures at a trifle over $100,000.

COACH BURTON IS DEVELOPING FAST CLARENDON TEAM

CLARENDON, TEXAS, March 8.—Baseball practice was resumed at Clarendon college today when about 60 aspirants to the club went through two hours hard work at College park. Despite the break in training due to the cold weather of last week, the club gave a splendid exhibition in their work-out which was witnessed by a large crowd.

The infield which is practically a new one, supported the claim made by Coach Burton a few days ago when he stated that it presented a combination that would produce air-tight baseball. The outfield proved invincible too, but that was naturally expected as three veterans from last year's team reported again this year for outpost positions. Of the new men, Woods, Rybee, Jackson and Hitchcock look exceptionally good while Big Chief Youngblood is the season's find as a mound artist.

The athletic council has announced that the college schedule is about complete and that it presents the most ambitious lineup of games ever attempted.

A pre-season game is to be played with Amarillo high school Friday of this week.

Twenty-two daily newspapers are published in London.

Average length of life in England and Wales is 51.5 years.
